Solution Description (Local Language)

Threader is a fictitious add-on for Microsoft Dynamics AX for the Construction industry. It was made up to fill screen shots for this presentation. This paragraph is a phony product description consisting of more or less random words that are typed as soon as they come to mind. Therefore, the reader should completely ignore any seemingly plausible information that is written in this screenshot. Any resemblance with an existing product and/or company is purely coincidental.

A&T Software is the fictitious company that was made up to fill screen shots for this presentation also. This paragraph is a phony product description consisting of more or less random words that are typed as soon as they come to mind. Therefore, the reader should completely ignore any seemingly plausible information that is written in this screenshot. Any resemblance with an existing product and/or company is purely coincidental.
